Crash kills one, injures three

School officials, parents, students get ready for Opening Day, Aug. 9

Families are busy buying back to school clothes and supplies and school officials are racing to get important projects finished in time for the first day of school, Thursday, Aug 9.

“Yes we have a lot going on to prepare for the upcoming school year,” said Superintendent of Schools Dot Perkins. “So much happens behind the scenes to get our buildings ready for Opening Day. It’s my favorite time of year.”

There is general cleaning and repair work going on at all the school system’s buildings and several major projects are also underway. Perkins said all work should be finished before the first day of school.

Sheriff offers $500 reward

The Gallatin County Sheriff’s Office is offering a $500 reward regarding a vandalism case.

The reward will go to anyone with information leading to the arrest and conviction of those who defaced the Exit 62 billboard on US 42 East near Crystal Lake.

If you have information on the vandalism Call Sheriff Josh Neale at 859-567-5751.

the summer.

A project to completely re-wire the high school’s computer and technology system that links every classroom, laboratory and office is nearly complete.

“We needed to re-wire the high school and update our technology so our students can complete the required online end-of-course assessments and on-line courses which are now available and important to them,” said Perkins.

A new roof also had to be installed at the high school. That project is still underway and is expected to be finished before opening day.

Parents, students and staff will also notice new striping has been painted on all parking lots and every room in every school has been thoroughly cleaned in preparation for the first day of school.

Budget cuts will close Courthouse for three days

Kentucky’s economic difficulties and tight budget will affect the Gallatin County Courthouse hours during the next three months.

The courthouse will be closed Monday, August 6; Tuesday, September 4; and Monday, October 15. The Kentucky Supreme Court ordered the closures as part of a “Furlough Advisory” for all non-elected court personnel. It’s an effort to meet the budget restriction for the Judicial Branch’s new fiscal year.

“Over the past four years, Kentucky’s Judicial Branch has experienced budget reductions of unprecedented proportions,” says the Supreme Court Order. “The Court of Justice has cut 282 employees statewide, eliminated court programs, and trimmed operating costs at all four levels of the court system to stay within budget.”

Trials and other court proceedings won’t be scheduled for those days, as no staff will work. In addition, no driver’s licenses will be issued.

Court employees will also be prohibited from working overtime during the week in which a furlough day is scheduled.

Patient dies after Jeep hits ambulance on 127

One person died, another is fighting for his life and two Gallatin County EMS workers were seriously injured in a two-vehicle accident on U. S. 127 near Tapering Point Road, Tuesday.

The accident occurred about 10 a.m. as a Jeep Cherokee ran head-on into a county ambulance that was taking a dialysis patient, John Little, 59, from Gallatin Health Care to Northern Kentucky for treatment. Little died Tuesday afternoon as a result of his injuries, said Gallatin County Sheriff Josh Neale.

The ambulance, which was traveling south, overturned after it was hit by a Jeep driven by Hunter LeGrand, 22, said emergency personnel at the scene. LeGrand’s vehicle, which was traveling north, was demolished and the ambulance is also a total loss.

LeGrand had surgery later that day and was listed in critical condition.

Little was strapped to a cot and was hanging upside down in the ambulance after the accident. He suffered fatal injuries after he released the cot’s straps and fell four-feet to the ceiling of the upside down ambulance.

“There’s no question what happened,” and Gallatin County EMS director Barry Alexander. “Our driver was over as far as he could get on his side of the road, the Jeep crossed the center line and ran head-on into the ambulance.”

Gallatin County Sheriff Josh Neale said he could tell by the tire tracks the Jeep was on the wrong side of the road. Neale also said he received a report earlier in the morning about a Jeep driving erratically nearby on Johnson Rd. LeGrand’s Jeep matches the description of the one seen there.

The accident totaled LeGrand’s Jeep. He was seriously injured and appeared to be in extreme pain as rescue workers cut his Jeep apart to free him.

He was then rushed to the hospital by medical helicopter. Alexander said LeGrand was fighting for his life after surgery.

The medic in the back of the ambulance, David Waltz, was also seriously injured and flown to the hospital by medical ambulance. He’s also expected to recover.

Ambulance driver Justin Shields was injured but not as severely as Waltz and LeGrand.

U. S. 127 was closed Tuesday for about five hours after the accident as the wreckage was removed and State Police accident investigators began their work.

Police say drugs may have played a role in the crash but that they will have to wait for the results of toxicology tests before charges are filed.

Filing deadline near for fall election

The August 14, filing deadline for those wishing to run in the November election is quickly approaching.

There will be several non-partisan local offices on the ballot including city council members in Warsaw and Glencoe as well as city commission members in Sparta. All those city officers serve two-year terms.

Also on the ballot, will be three school board seats. Those are the Naoleon/Concord seat currently held by Becky Burgett, the Sparta seat held by Joanie Rogers and the Glencoe seat held by Alex Tainsh. He was recently appointed to the board after the resignation of Anita McFarland.

Four of the county’s seven soil and water conservation officers are also up for election. They are Peggy Tinch, Ron Courtney, Joe Lowe and Joseph Smith. They serve four year terms.

The Democrats and Republicans decided who their candidates will be in primary elections held earlier in the year.

At the top of ballot will be the race for President of the United States between incumbent Democrat President Barack Obama and Republican challenger Mitt Romney. Obama didn’t run well in the state four years ago and isn’t expected to do any better this time.

Voters will also elect a U. S. Congressman from this district. That race is between Republican Tom Massie and Democrat William Adkins.

The race for the Kentucky House is also on the ballot. In that race are Democrat Wanda Crupper Hammonds and Republican Brian Linder.

Election Day will be Tuesday Nov. 6 across the country. Gallatin County’s voting polls will be open from 6 a.m to 6 p.m. that day.

This and That

I knew someday the animals who share my humble abode would be good for something besides hair balls, paw prints and clogged furnace filters.

Long ago, my life was simple. I shared my home with one little cat that was so shy she never came out from underneath the bed.

Those days are only fond memories. Now, there are animals everywhere I look. Dogs dart across the kitchen, a cat claws through the dining room and fish swim in the living room. Outside, it’s worse. A puppy runs wild, deer eat my apples and a neighbor’s cow comes over to see if anyone wants to play.

My pets will keep me healthy

With all the money I’ve spent on kibble and kitty litter in the past ten years, I could retire and move to some island where bikinis decorate the beach and the music of steel drums echoes through the night. Instead, my household income must be budgeted to make sure the cat doesn’t go hungry, each dog has a bed and every fish has its castle.

This dollar drain used to concern me but no more. As it turns out, my animals may be my road to financial freedom.

We all know the cost of health care these days is staggering. An unexpected illness can threaten the financial stability of any family. Thanks to my pets, however, I don’t have to worry about that happening to me.

That’s because people have discovered they can get around the high cost of good health by taking medicine meant for their pets. For me, that’s particularly good news because my cupboard is filled with medications for my four-legged and water-breathing friends. Think of the money I’ll save the next time I catch a cold, get an itch or feel a little puny.

Thanks to the dogs, I don’t have to worry about flea, tick or any other kind parasitological invasion. That’s not all. Hairballs won’t wreck my budget and neither will ear mites, worms, hot spots or excessive itching.

The news is even better for those of us with aquariums. Apparently, lots of people save big bucks when they get sick or injured by taking medicine meant for their fish. I’ve had fish for years and have accumulated enough powders, pills, and potions to treat nearly every malady known to man.

I carefully read the literature that comes with my fishy pharmaceuticals over the weekend. I learned I may never have to go to the doctor again because I have cures for every illness you can imagine including fungus, body spots, rapid breathing, bulbous eyeballs, pimples, rapid breathing, sluggishness, bleeding, red spots, loss of appetite, white excretions, holes in the head and tail rot.

Because more and more people are turning to their pets’ medicine when they get sick, doctors are sending out warnings that self-medicating is not a good idea. They say it can lead to all kinds of adverse effects. For that reason, I’m counting on my friends to watch me closely and call for help if they find me swimming around in circles or jumping out of my tank.

Mill Creek is in danger

Dear Editor:

Everyone concerned for the environment will agree that no one has the right to irresponsibly damage and destroy a stream of water.

The fish, plants, and all the living creatures of the creek form a beautiful ecosystem designed by the creator of all nature.

But there is damage and destruction occurring at Mill Creek in Owen County.

A company called Horseshoe Bend Motor Sports is blatantly destroying it. Sports vehicles run in and out of holes of water, churning them into stagnant, lifeless pools of contamination and mud, while they pursue an activity called “mudding”.

If you share my concern, call me and I will show you the damage.

You can also call the Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection, Division of Water at the Florence office and speak to Director Todd Giles or Inspector Jeffrey Malsi at 859-525-4923. The Mill Creek case number is #2347440.

This activity must be stopped. Your help is needed and those who are concerned must speak up on behalf of our environment and fragile ecosystems.

Thank you for your support.

Lawrence is victim of govt.

Dear Editor:

I’ve known Larry Lawrence since 1966. I would trust this man with anything I have. He is an upstanding, altruistic man who has, without fanfare, helped many people throughout the years.

I sat in the courtroom and watched the deadpan faces of the jury during his trial. I have an accounting background and I still found the trial hard to follow.

If the IRS truly felt they had an issue, then why didn’t one of their representatives contact him or send him a statement?

Was it necessary to spend taxpayers’ dollars on a trial? This is just another example of our out-of-control government.

Mr. Lawrence is paying the ultimate price — loss of his freedom and suspension of his law license. All who read this should be aware of the government’s uncontrolled power.

Kentucky Commentary

EPA is killing American coal and aluminum

Kentuckians weren’t surprised to hear recently that Abound Solar, a federally subsidized solar-power manufacturer, declared bankruptcy.

Why should we be? Unintended consequences always accompany attempts by the Environmental Protection Agency to force pie-in-the-sky schemes on our communities.

Shortly after the U.S. Senate failed to override new regulations to price coal-powered plants out of the market, Arch Coal Company took the hint and decided to close its facilities in Pike, Marion and Knott Counties.

In announcing layoffs of 750 workers — including 600 Kentuckians — Arch President John W. Eaves blamed “current market pressures and a challenging regulatory environment” for the 20-year low in coal consumption.

If coal companies are forced out of business because they can’t keep up with the competition, they — like automakers and banks — should be allowed to fail. But no legitimate American business — regardless of how politically incorrect its product may — should be destroyed by over-zealous regulators.

EPA administrator Lisa Jackson refuses to acknowledge the costs of her agency’s mandates on those scraping by in Appalachian coal country.

In Louisa, Kentucky, the unemployment rate of 12.6 percent — more than 4 percent higher than the national rate — is about to skyrocket because coal plant Big Sandy 2 cannot afford the $1 billion necessary to comply with the EPA’s fantasies.

But Jackson’s regulatory jolts have shaken Kentucky industries lured here by our cheap energy and now feeling the tremors.

Aluminum manufacturers are uncertain of their ability to survive the inevitable cost increases due to mine closures. Century Aluminum has announced it may be forced to close its 700-employee smelter in Hancock County if it can’t get better electric rates.

And that’s just the beginning for the aluminum industry and for Kentucky — where more than 30 percent of the nation’s aluminum manufacturing takes place.

Higher energy prices could force aluminum manufacturers to leave the country altogether.

This is true especially of smelting plants like Century’s, where energy costs consume 40 percent of operating expenses for each ton of aluminum produced.

“There’s no doubt there’s a global movement of the smelting industry,” says Mike Baker, director of economic development in Hancock Counth. “I’ve seen numbers that show as much as $11 billion worth of new construction on aluminum facilities in China, and a big part of that is on smelters.”

What’s more alarming is the aluminum produced in Kentucky’s two smelters (out of the eight in the entire nation) is the high-purity aluminum used by our military.

Ironically, even as the two smelters in Kentucky (out of the eight in the entire nation) face uncertain futures due to over-regulation, the Kingdom of Bahrain is building the world’s two largest smelters.

It’s one thing for an American-owned company to rationally respond to market signals by moving operations to Bahrain.

It’s quite another if an entire industry is forced to relocate because of a moronic government that subsidizes solar silliness while turning the lights out on multi-generational firms like Century and the hundreds of Kentuckians they employ.

News from the schools

•Readifest has been scheduled for Thursday, August 2, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the high school this year.

•A Meet and Greet Open House for pre-kindergarten through second grade students and their parents/guardians will be held Monday, August 6, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the elementary school.

•All Gallatin County schools will begin the 2012/13 school year on Thursday, August 9. The Gallatin County News will include a "Back to School" insert on Wednesday, August 1. It will contain all the information parents, students and guardians need to be prepared for the new school year.

•Gallatin County Elementary School's PTSO is now accepting new members for the 2012-13 school year. Contact the PTSO at gallatincountyelementaryptso@yahoo.com or find them on Facebook.

•Gallatin County Elementary Site Based Decision Making Council meetings are open to the public and their first meeting of the new school year will be held Wednesday, August 15, at 3:30 p.m. in the elementary school conference room.

•Students entering the sixth grade in school year 2012/13 need a complete, updated Kentucky Immunization Certificate with all vaccines recorded including: (1) one dose of Tdap if it has been at least two years since the administration of the last dose of tetanus-containing vaccine; (2) two doses of Varicella, unless a health care provider states that the child has had a diagnosis of typical varicella disease or verification of a history of varicella disease by a health care provider or a diagnosis of herpes zoster disease or verification of a history of herpes zoster disease by a health care provider; (3) one dose of MCV or MPSV (meningococcal vaccine).

A Kentucky Preventative Health Care Examination Form is also required for all students entering sixth grade. This exam may be completed up to one year prior to entry into the sixth grade.

If students intend to participate in sports, a separate sports/athletic physical must be completed on a KHSAA Form. The KHSAA sports physical does NOT replace the required Kentucky Preventative Health Care exam required for sixth grade entry.

•Did you know? Adult education is not just GED classes. The program also offers COMPASS/ACT Preparation, English-as-a-Second Language classes, online GED preparation, WIN/Work Keys, Workplace Skills/National Career Readiness Certification, and college information. Classes begin July 23.

Please call JCTC/Gallatin County Adult Education at 859-567-6046 or e-mail dona.roberts@gallatin.kyschools.us to schedule an appointment.

•The Dolly Parton Imagination Library Program is open to all children, ages birth through five years old. The program was established to encourage literacy in the home and recognize the importance of reading to children at an early age by providing children with a free book every month until their fifth birthday. Enrollment is required. Forms for enrollment can be obtained at the Family Resource Center, room 116, Gallatin County Upper Elementary School. Call Conte Flowers at 859-567-4900 or Matt at 859-567-4660.

•The Family Resource Center has a lending library which contains some excellent parenting books. Parents are welcome to browse through the collection of books and check out any books of interest.

•The Family Resource Center and the students it serves are in need of gently used gym shoes and socks of all sizes. Please bring donations to the Center located in room 116 of the upper elementary school. Call 567-4900 for more information.

•The Kentucky Virtual Library is available to students and parents through the Gallatin County School System. This is one web site that can be trusted to be completely accurate and educational. The site contains a wealth of information that can be found in encyclopedias and articles from magazines and books. To access, username: gallatin01; password: gannet84.

•The Gallatin County Schools' web site now has a parent involvement page that will contain district updates and information for parents from the entire district. Parents are asked to complete a survey that can be found on the Parent Involvement link at www.gallatin.kyschools.us.

People... in The News

Jacob Doolin, an officer with the Gallatin County Sheriff's Department, was one of 27 officers throughout Kentucky who completed 18 weeks of basic training at the Kentucky Department of Criminal Justice Training in Richmond recently.

Major training areas included homeland security, law offenses and procedures, vehicle operations, firearms, investigations, first aid/CPR, patrol procedures, orientation for new law enforcement families, and mechanics of arrest, restraint and control.

Doolin joined the Gallatin County Sheriff's Department in January of this year and spent several weeks in on-the-job training before beginning basic training in Richmond in February.

He is a 1999 graduate of Gallatin County High School and lives in Warsaw with his wife and three children.

Kentucky Blood Center accepting donations

The Kentucky Blood Center will accept donations this Saturday, July 28, from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Meeting Room of the Gallatin County Public Library at 209 West Market Street, here in Warsaw.

All blood donors, (age 18 and over) now through September 14, will be eligible to win a 2012 Toyota Rav4. Each time someone registers to donate, they will be automatically entered to win the compact SUV. Because of the length of the promotion, donors can be entered in the giveaway more than once this summer.

Blood donors must be 17-years-old (16 with parental consent), weigh at least 110 pounds, be in general good health and meet additional requirements. Sixteen-year-old donors must have a signed parental permission slip, which can be found at kybloodcenter.org.

The KBC is the largest FDA regulated blood bank in Kentucky and is a non-profit organization dedicated to ensuring a safe, adequate blood supply for patients at nearly 70 Kentucky hospitals and clinics in more than 60 counties. The KBC relies on volunteers to donate 400 pints of blood per day to meet the needs of area patients.

To schedule a donation, visit kybloodcenter.org or call 800-775-2522.

Mikkah Hignite and Kristian Morgan play well in All Star game

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter
Two Gallatin County Wildcat basketball players recently played in the Kentucky High School Coaches Association Junior All Star Game in Louisville.

Both the girls and boys games were played at St. Xavier High School on Saturday, July 14, in these exciting summer games.

Players from the fifth and sixth regions made up the roster of the West squad.

The East team was made up of players from the seventh and eighth regions.

Girls
In the girls game, Lady Wildcat Mikkah Hignite scored five points as the East cruised to a 107-60 victory. Owen County's Hannah Neely added 14 points for the East team.

Boys
In the boys game, Kristian Morgan scored eight points, including two free throws with 18 seconds remaining to give the East a 121-120 lead with time running out. Nevertheless, Bullitt East's Trey Rakes scored at the buzzer to give the West a 122-121 victory.

Barry Larkin honored for skills, hometown loyalty

Cincinnati Reds great Barry Larkin is one of only six players whose career began after 1970 to play at least 18 years with only one team and then make the Hall of Fame.

The others are Cal Ripkin, Jr.; Robin Yount, Tony Gwynn, Mike Schmidt, and George Brett.

Larkin is also one of only six players to play his entire career with his hometown team and make the Hall of Fame.

The others are Ripkin, Lou Gehrig, Phil Rizzoto, Whitey Ford, and Charlie Gehringer.

Getting ready for a new season

Gallatin County's volleyball team began two practices a day, Monday, to get ready for the upcoming season.

Sports in Kentucky ... by Bob Watkins

The XXX Olympiad begins in London this weekend. For America, these Games could not have come at a better time.

For athletes the culmination of preparing for the zenith of careers.

Time for a feel-good in America too. A respite from drought, a dullard economy, excruciating media attention on senseless killings, and hateful political rhetoric.

Wrap ourselves in the flag, chant U-S-A! in unison and tell ourselves "red, white and blue ain't corny."

America's refrain: roll out America the Beautiful ... reach for their stars, go for the gold.

Before the cheering starts, a few items from one man's Bucket List. Things I hope to see.

1. USA is not favored to top the medal tote board at the end. Underdog America going against the Brits again is Bunker Hill and The-Shot-Heard-Round-The-World perfect.

2. The face of the US delegation to London could be Unibrow. Anthony Davis.

3. Reese Hoffa, 5-11, 315-pound shot putter born in Louisville.

4. Tyson Gay, sprinter (Lexington Lafayette). He may be USA's best hope against Jamaican self-proclaimed superman Usain Bolt.

5. Stephanie Hightower. London may be a mountain-top experience for her in the U.S. delegation. She began as a skinny sprinter at Ft. Knox High School in the 1970s.

Here's what some of our friends have been doing:

•Rae McEntyre continued her journey through Kentucky's Historical Sites, Saturday, beginning with a visit to Constitution Square in Danville. It was there that ten constitutional conventions were held in 1792, which led to the separation of Kentucky from Virginia and, ultimately, statehood. She then visited the William Whitley House, the first brick home built west of the Alleghenies. Whitley, who hated the British, began the American tradition of horses running on a track counterclockwise. His home, called Sportsman Hill, contains original wood flooring, with brick and chestnut beams held together by pegs. Rae finished her day at Fort Harrod, where she witnessed a reenactment of the Civil War Battle of Fort Harrod. This reenactment included actors in period uniforms, camps, and even cannon and musket fire. Rae plans to continue her odyssey and we hope to hear all about her adventures.

•Shirley Chipman has had another busy weekend. Friday night, Mae Wallace treated her to supper at Hometown Pizzeria for her birthday and on Saturday, they enjoyed lunch at the Dairy Queen and spent the afternoon together. On Sunday, family members held a surprise birthday dinner for Shirley after church. The grandchildren decorated the house and made the cakes. Celebrating with Shirley were Aileen Chipman, Branden, Derina, Savannah, and Autaun Doolin; Mae Wallace, Will and Jessica Schrage, Ruthie Niebergall, and Lanette and Jama Morrison. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SHIRLEY!

•Patsy Brown, her brother, Ricky Cayton; their sisters, Rita Sample and Marlene Lozier, traveled to Milan, Indiana, Saturday, to visit their niece, Alissa Schwipps, whose husband, Greg, celebrated his 40th birthday. Another brother, Charlie Cayton, was also there, along with many friends and Greg's family members. Patsy said she loved seeing their beautiful home in its wooded setting, and particularly enjoyed playing with Alissa and Greg's 10-month-old son, Milan. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, GREG!

•Mary Jane Day had a fun-filled weekend! On Saturday, she and her friend, Barbara Finrock, attended the Sue Bogardus auction before attending the Moron Brothers program at the library. Mary Jane said it was extremely funny and quite entertaining. Following that, the ladies attended the Riverfront Concert Series on the riverfront where they heard the Urban Jazz Coalition. Mary Jane said it was really excellent and couldn't believe they could see such a wonderful program free of charge. On Sunday, Mary Jane and her son, Randy, went to the Cincinnati Reds game with 14 other family members and watched a great game. The Reds won and, because the Reds' pitchers had eleven strike-outs, all 32,000 fans were given free pizza and ice cream. What a fun weekend, Mary Jane!

•Amy Dickerson and son, Hayden, went shopping, Sunday, at Florence Mall. They are making sure Hayden has everything he needs for attending basketball camp in Lexington next Friday and Saturday. Hayden is very excited about this opportunity and looking forward to seeing all the players and coaches.

•Katie and Hardin Lowe visited her sister and brother-in-law, Betty and Willmere Satchwell, last weekend in Morrow, Ohio. They spent the day together and enjoyed the delectable buffet at the Houston Restaurant for lunch. On Monday, Katie enjoyed a visit from her son, Nathan; grandson, Logan; and granddaughter, C.J. Nathan and Logan have just returned from a fabulous vacation in Panama City.

•Barbara and Carvin Baker visited their friend, Betty Harrison of Sparta, last Wednesday at St. Elizabeth South in Florence. Betty had a fall which resulted in a broken hip, but is doing well and expected to fully recover.

Betty and Boyd Lionberger have just returned from a most enjoyable four-day family reunion in Clinton, Missouri, accompanied by son, Keith West. The national reunion was held at the Hampton Inn in Clinton, hosted by Boyd's cousin, Myrna Raye Combs Hayes, and attended by approximately 60 family members, one of whom traveled from Reno, Nevada to be with them.

On their first morning in Clinton, Betty, Boyd, and Keith visited the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir in Warsaw, Missouri. The dam was completed in 1980, and Boyd said he watched its construction. When asked if Warsaw is bigger than our town, Betty said maybe a little, but the Warsaw in Missouri proudly boasts that fishing in Truman Lake is the best in the midwest. The activities planned for the group were many and varied, including a visit to the cemeteries, the Henry County Museum, traveling the back roads of the Ozarks, and savoring the hot complimentary breakfast every morning.

Boyd said there are still a lot of gravel roads in the Ozarks! Thursday and Friday evenings were spent enjoying the music provided by Keith West and Boyd's brother-in-law, John Horner. Boyd's sisters, Carol and Cheryl, offered their singing talents several times to make the musical experience complete. After breakfast on Friday morning, the entire family group visited the Truman Dam, went to the Golden Corral for a late lunch, then enjoyed catered sandwiches and drinks at the Hampton Inn for dinner. Betty, Boyd, and Keith arrived home Sunday evening about 8:30, tired but happy, and filled with happy memories to carry them over till the next reunion in 2014.

•Guests of Carol Estes on Wednesday were Diana Peterson of Williamsburg, Virginia; Loretta Parsley of Louisville, Sandy Butler of Cold Spring, and Linda Connell of Union. Carol introduced her friends to Jewel's on Main for lunch. Diana had never had a Kentucky Hot Brown, and was quite impressed with Jewel's version of the delicious Kentucky entree. On Saturday, Carol's brother and sister-in-law, Mark and Susan Hatfield, and their daughter, Rachel, of Nairobi, Kenya, spent the night with Carol before heading to Tennessee. The Hatfields have been missionaries in Africa for over 25 years, and are in the states on vacation for about a month. Carol plans to spend more time with them in August while they are visiting her mother's home in Ashland.

•Puppy Update: Annie has had several visitors, and many folks have asked about her. She is adapting very well to my household, eating well and playing hard. She is quite brave, and will fiercely take on stuffed toys twice her size. She is delightful, and I am now wondering why I waited so long to get another dog. Many thanks to my young neighbor, Kayla Beach, for puppy-sitting and for playing with Annie.

I caught many residents at Gallatin Health Care by surprise when I made my visit on Wednesday rather than my usual Sunday. They were definitely not expecting me, of all people, to come to the dining room as they were waiting for their evening meal. A couple of them said it is not Sunday. !!!! I tell you they have my time marked for me. I went from table to table spreading a little cheer. I wrote their room numbers on the back of my tablet so they would not have to be bothered carrying their bananas. I also did not want the bananas to take away from the meal they were going to receive.

I met Raymond Lafollette. His daughter, from Burlington, was there with him. She said her dad was a big John Deere fan. Mr. Lafollette was a farmer in Piner in Kenton County. She said farming is all he knows. He has had no other hobbies. I began talking to him about the drought and the ground conditions that farmers are facing today. He was all ears as I was talking. It is so good to make a connection, you have heard me say this before. It is moments like these that keep making me come back.

I saw Jack Duncan at the table with Herman Ligon and Wayne Caldwell. Jack's wife, Jean, and son, Mike, were there with him. I joined them for a little conversation. I had not seen Jean in a while. I told Mike she and Stella Adams always stopped in my store to say hello as they made their daily walk to town. I hope the best for Mr. Duncan so he can get back home in no time.

I spoke with Herman about his children very briefly. I had already spoken to Wayne Caldwell as I came into the center. I remarked to him how great he looked and he said he was much better.

Linda Hicks gave me orders to bring her a toy, but for now the bananas I placed in her room were good enough. I made a note so I will not forget for she is one that keeps me on my toes. If you could only see her holding up both arms for a big hug as she sits and rolls in her wheel chair. The smile on her face will bring tears to your eyes. The minute she spots me I know what to expect. Her roommate, Linda Beach, is doing so much better. I finally got to talk to Linda and was so glad she is improving.

Mr. Jim Wilson was all smiles as I reached out my hand to shake his. He was sitting in the lobby waiting to go into the dining room.

He was dressed fit to see the king. He laughed as I commented this to him and he nodded his head.

Mrs. Katherine Kendall was her lovely self as I took her hand. She is always a pleasure to talk to. She is so overjoyed when she sees me and is so thankful for bananas. I love talking to her and watching her expressions and the tone of her voice gets higher as she is explaining her thoughts to me.

As I made my rounds and started talking most of the conversations centered on a couple of the residents. One being 100 years and the other being 107. I did have the pleasure of speaking to Cecilia Sandman who is 100. She is a very spry little lady. She can maneuver that walker like there is no tomorrow, as the saying goes. She told me all about the business she owned in Latonia on Decoursey Pike. I knew right where she was talking about.

I wasn't able to visit with the lady who is 107 on this visit. I did, however, meet a lady named Dreama from Winston-Salem, North Carolina. She had just gotten there. I met her sister and brother-in-law from Walton. It was my pleasure meeting them and to welcome them to the center.

Lula Hensley is anxiously awaiting Tuesday. As long as she is able, she is planning to go to Belterra. She has been a little under the weather but hopes she can go. She said last year she won money and wants to do the same this year. We talked a lot, as we normally do, and, as always, she gets me to laugh. Her expressions and choice of words go together so well she can not be beat for our time spent together. I always sit in her wheel chair as she is in her bed with all those books she reads daily or should I say every minute.

Marcla Hutchinson could not believe I came to see her on a Sunday. She said this was so unexpected it made her day. She is also a very spry lady. She and I have some very interesting talks. Lucky, the cat, came in to visit a time or two while I was there. Marcla has always been a cat lover except she does not want the cat in her bed and I totally agree with her on this one.

As my visit was coming to a close I still had to visit the 100 hall. Audrey Hammond is one of my regular visits and he is doing just fine. The highlight of this visit was seeing Carole Losey. She is just a delight to talk to. Her husband is at the center as well. As I was speaking to her, he came to visit her. I helped with the steering so he could come through the door with no trouble. He was very excited to see bananas and wanted one of hers.

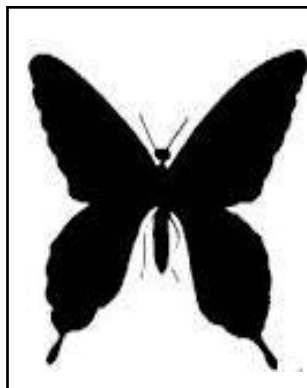

My attention was drawn to her table where she has been doing some needlecraft. I commented on them and she began showing me all the ones she has done, getting them ready for her friends and relatives for Christmas and other occasions. She makes the cutest little miniature bag that holds potpourri. She was only missing the potpourri and needed some cotton balls to finish off another project. I asked her if I could bring her some on my next visit and the expression on her face was as if she had won the powerball. I asked her if she needed them before my August visit and she said no that would be fine.

A few days later when I picked up Donna Davis to give her a ride to work, I gave Donna a bag of supplies to give Carole.

Planting by the Signs

by Phil Case

Last week I promised a word or two about fall gardens. May be a few more than that, but we'll give it a whirl.

As it says in my gardening bible, "Home Vegetable Gardening in Kentucky" that's published for the Cooperative Extension Service by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, "gardening doesn't have to end with your summer-grown crops since some vegetables are suitable for late summer planting."

The book continues by pointing out that fall vegetables are typically those that are, 1) the last succession of plantings of warm-season crops, such as corn and bush beans and/or 2) cool-season crops which grow well during the cool fall days and withstand frost. In many cases, those in the latter category are the same as the ones we planted in the early gardens just a few months ago.

All this, or course, is talking about planting in an unprotected garden. There are methods you can utilize to protect your veggies and keep the soil warmer to extend the gardening season even further into the late fall.

It seems really strange, I know, to be talking about cooler days, nights and soil temperatures when it's still 80 degrees at bedtime, but inexorably they all will come as the amount of daylight each day continues to diminish while the earth tilts away from the sun as winter approaches.

But it's gonna happen. If it doesn't then something's gone terribly wrong and we, as they say, "...in big trouble!"

If you're into fall gardens, here's what you can be planting now. Most are what we would describe as cool-weather crops, with the exception of bush beans and corn, the former which can be planted through mid-August and the latter only through the remainder of July.

Of course as I said last week, if the unseasonable winter and spring we had becomes an unseasonable fall, then planting and harvesting dates could be extended. Experts said in the spring that everything was running about three weeks ahead of schedule!

That, however, is a gamble that statistically speaking likely won't play out to your advantage since the first frost date is usually around Oct. 10. But that's statistically speaking, and the spring defied all statistics!

What to plant through July: Brussels sprouts, corn

Until mid-August: beets, bush beans, rutabaga

Through August: Bibb lettuce, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, Chinese cabbage, collards, endive, kale, kohlrabi, mustard greens, snow peas, turnips, turnip greens

Through September: leaf lettuce, spinach

So, you see, there are lots of things you can plant since there are lots of things that actually prefer cooler soil and air temperatures and are resistant to frosts and light freezes.

Phases and signs

The moon is in the light phase now and will remain there until the full moon on Aug. 1 - the first for two full moons in August, the other one being on Aug. 31. Through this period plant only those veggies that produce above the ground with an eye on the list above.

A look at the signs reveals today (Wednesday) is the last day of our monthly series of flowering signs with the sign in Libra (reins) and the moon in the light phase. This is a bloom day and flowers planted today should do that abundantly.

The very fertile sign Scorpio (the secrets) comes into force Thursday and Friday for above-ground producers.

Beginning Saturday and on into August is our monthly series of so-so signs. Sagittarius (the thighs) is in force Saturday through Monday, July 28-30 with Capricorn (the knees) ruling July 31-Aug. 1. The period concludes with Aquarius (the legs) in charge Aug. 2-4.

Again, these signs aren't outstandingly productive but they aren't killers either - just so-so.

Take Care of Horses in Dry Conditions

No question about it, 2012 is proving to be a record breaker where heat and drought are concerned. You'll want to make some adjustments due to the weather to take care of your horses this summer. It's very important to also consider what you will need to feed them later on this year.

Horse owners rely on pasture to meet a big part of their horses' daily nutrient needs. With dry conditions across the county, you may be facing the need to feed hay sooner than you normally do and supplies are going to be tight this year.

So Dirt, just how much hay do you need per horse?

In many cases, using an estimate of 2 percent of the horse's body weight per day is where you should start. For example, a 1,200-pound horse will need about 24 pounds of hay per day.

In a more normal year, an inventory of hay for 150 to 180 days would be a reasonable amount; however, with limited pasture available this year and uncertainty about availability this fall, planning ahead can keep you from running short on feed.

Plan ahead and consider that you may need to feed for more days. If you are feeding 24 pounds per day, that means you will feed more than 650 pounds per month.

If you add in some waste, which will happen, you are up to 800 pounds per horse per month. Think of ways you can reduce waste or keep it at a reasonable level; for example, use a suitable hay feeder.

Many owners feed hay on the ground and that can result in a loss of more than 50 percent. With hay becoming so costly and possibly in short supply, making good use of what you've got makes good sense.

Start planning for winter feeding supplies now as you consider when you are going to have to start feeding hay for your horses because there may not be pasture available. For some, that time of "no pasture" is right now. Make sure you have enough hay for your horses. Finding it now will be much easier than finding it later.

For more information about feeding your horses, contact the Gallatin County Cooperative Extension Service.

To Can or to Freeze?

Soon, many vegetables and fruits will be ready for harvesting, and many gardeners will have more produce than they can readily eat. Those who want to preserve fresh, summer foods for later will consider either freezing or canning the harvest. But is one way of preservation better than the other? The answer depends on the type of food you want to preserve.

If proper techniques and correct temperatures are used, frozen foods retain greater amounts of their vitamin content, natural color, flavor and texture. Freezing foods preserves them by stopping or slowing the growth of microorganisms that cause food-borne illnesses and spoilage.

Freezing is perhaps the easiest food preservation method, but not all foods freeze well. Some vegetables with high water content are not well suited for use as raw vegetables after freezing, but work well as ingredients in cooked dishes, like soups. Green, leafy vegetables like lettuce, cabbage and celery can become limp and watery. They may also develop an off flavor when frozen. Foods containing eggs or milk may separate water from solids or become tough, frothy or watery depending on the other ingredients. Freezing fried foods can cause them to lose their crispness and become soggy.

Like freezing, canning, when done correctly, can stop the growth of microorganisms that cause spoilage, food-borne illnesses or food poisoning. Canning is a safe and cost-effective way to preserve foods. Many fruits and vegetables begin losing their nutritive value once harvested, so it's best to can foods at the peak of freshness. This is usually within 6 to 12 hours after harvesting or purchasing from a farmers market.

Home canning has changed greatly in the last 200 years. A pressure canner is essential if you can low-acid foods such as vegetables or meat at home. For high acid foods such as fruits and tomatoes, either a boiling-water canner or pressure canner can be used. Pressure canners can be expensive, but with proper care they will last many years.

Check dial gauges for accuracy before each canning season and replace the gauge if it reads high or low by more than one pound. The Gallatin County Extension Service checks dial gauges free-of-charge. Please call 567-5481 to set up an appointment or drop off your lid for checking and pick up at a later time. The dial testing takes about 15 minutes and the lid and weight are the only parts needed. Weighted gauges are more durable and do not need checking for accuracy. Canning is a lot of work so you want the results to be worth your effort. Check your equipment and make sure everything works properly before you start to can.

If you're canning for the first time or have previous experience but want to can a new food, check that the food has recommended canning guidelines from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. These guidelines can be found in USDA's Complete Guide to Home Canning available online at http://nchfp.uga.edu/publications/publications_usda.html. Do not can foods lacking USDA guidelines, as the absence of guidelines for a particular food is likely due to a safety or quality concern.

The University of Kentucky offers extension publications on the correct way to freeze and can foods. For more information on food preservation, contact your Gallatin Cooperative Extension Service at 567-5481.

Being the same property conveyed to James M. Thompson and Alexis M. Thompson, his wife who acquired title, with rights of survivorship, by virtue of a deed from C. Dempsey Merrell and Jeanne Litton Merrell, his wife, dated July 6, 1983, filed July 9, 1982, recorded in Deed Book D46, page 240, County Clerk's Office, Gallatin County, Kentucky.

Said property shall be sold for the purpose of collecting the following judgment debt: A judgment in favor of the plaintiff(s) in the amount of $95,237.28 together with interest, assessments, taxes and costs herein expended.

TERMS OF SALE: The property shall be sold as a whole. The purchaser may pay all or part of the purchase price in cash, and may pay the balance of the purchase price on a credit of 30 days after date of sale; said credit shall be granted only upon the execution by the purchaser of bond, with surety thereon, and said surety shall be a lending institution, fidelity or surety company authorized and doing business in Kentucky or other surety approved by the Master Commissioner; an authorized officer of the surety must be present at the sale or must have given the Master Commissioner adequate assurance of its intent to be surety prior to or at the sale; said Bond shall be, and shall remain, a lien on the property sold as additional security for the payment of the full purchase price, and shall have the full force and effect of a Judgment; and said Bond shall bear interest at the rate of Twelve (12%) Percent per annum until paid. The purchaser shall be required to pay the sum of 10% of the bid amount in cash or certified check on the purchase at the time of sale. Risk of loss shall pass to the successful bidder at the close of the sale. The successful bidder at the sale shall, at bidder's own expense, carry fire and extended insurance coverage on any improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, with a loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner of the Gallatin Circuit Court. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, a lien holder herein, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, and the premium thereon or the proper portion thereof shall be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost. The property shall be sold subject to ad valorem taxes for the year 2012 and all subsequent years thereafter; easements, restrictions and stipulations of record; assessments for public improvements levied against the property, if any; existing zoning ordinances, statutes, laws, or regulations; and any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose. BIDDERS SHALL BE PREPARED TO COMPLY WITH THESE TERMS.

State Parks celebrate 20th Anniversary of Kentucky Chautauqua, August 1-5

The Kentucky Humanities Council invites you to help celebrate the 20th anniversary of its Kentucky Chautauqua® program, which for two decades has helped tell Kentucky's story through interesting dramatic characters.

The council is joining with the Kentucky State Parks to help celebrate Aug. 1-5 with special programs at five parks.

The "History & Humor, Hummin' & Strummin' 2012" programs will include Kentucky Chautauqua presentations, featuring actors who portray people important to the state's history and culture.

The five-day celebration is also commemorating the sesquicentennial of the Civil War and the bicentennial of the War of 1812.

"This is a great opportunity to introduce more Kentuckians to the Kentucky Chautauqua program while enjoying our exceptional Kentucky State Parks," said Virginia G. Carter, executive director of the Council.

The "History & Humor, Hummin' & Strummin' 2012" programs will feature traditional Chautauqua outdoor settings with a large tent, a stage, chairs for guests and refreshments. Each show will start at 6 p.m. and last until 10 p.m. They will be free to attend. Indoor facilities will be available in case of rain.

"We're happy to work with the Kentucky Humanities Council to celebrate the anniversary of the Kentucky Chautauqua program at Kentucky State Parks," said Parks Commissioner Elaine Walker.

"This is an excellent chance for our guests to enjoy two programs associated with our cabinet – the Kentucky Chautauqua program and the Kentucky State Parks," said Tourism, Arts and Heritage Secretary Marcheta Sparrow, who joined Carter and Walker for a ceremony announcing the schedule in Frankfort. "I can't think of any better way to spend a summer evening."

Some of the figures from Kentucky's past who will be featured at the parks include Colonel Harland Sanders; Mary Settles, the last Shaker at Pleasant Hill; abolitionist John G. Fee and Pvt. William Greathouse, a young soldier in the War of 1812.

Here is the schedule for the five-day event:

Wednesday, Aug. 1, Lake Barkley State Resort Park, Cadiz

Thursday, Aug. 2, General Butler State Resort Park, Carrollton

Friday, Aug. 3, Carter Caves State Resort Park, Olive Hill

Saturday, Aug. 4, Cumberland Falls State Resort Park, Corbin

Sunday, Aug. 5, Old Fort Harrod State Park, Harrodsburg

Each park will offer an afternoon activity, such as a tour or walk, before the 6 p.m. program. Restaurants at the four resort parks will be open for dinner and food will also be available at Old Fort Harrod prior to the Chautauqua event. Four Kentucky Chautauqua characters will perform at each location.

For more information visit www.kyhumanities.org and www.parks.ky.gov.

Below is a more detailed schedule for General Butler State Resort Park:

General Butler State resort Park—August 2

3:30 p.m. – Tour of Butler-Turpin Historic Home. Meet in front of the home.

5 p.m. – Dinner available in the lodge.

6-10 p.m. Chautauqua
Presenters:
Private William Greathouse - John G. Fee
Harland "Colonel" Sanders - Mary Settles
Musician: Clayton Dermon
